25 Students from Foreign Lands at UNH for Week-end

Banquet for the Visiting Students to be Given Saturday Night

Students representing fifteen foreign nations will arrive in Durham Saturday to take part in the International Friendship week-end sponsored by the Student Movement for Christian work.

Immediately upon arrival, the students will attend an informal tea at Ballard hall in order to become acquainted with members of the University. A group of marionettes, dressed in the costumes of the various lands, will be presented at that time.

In the evening a banquet will be held in the University dining hall with Newton C. Fetter, chairman of the Foreign Students committee in Boston, as toastmaster. The principal speakers at the banquet include Grover Clark, well known authority on Pacific affairs, and several of the student guests.

It is hoped by the sponsors of the program that many University students will attend. Representatives of the various countries are:

Student Writer Will be Distributed Soon

Contributions by Starie, Lovely, Karanikas and Others

The Student Writer has gone to press and is expected to be ready for distribution by the tenth of the month. The contributions are in three forms: verse, story, and non-fiction prose and are well balanced.

According to Professor Carroll S. Towle, as there was much material submitted, it was hard to select the best, but a balance between variety and representative writers was obtained without including works of an inferior nature. The freshman class is represented, together with a number of leading works by the senior class. Many of the writings are particularly concerned with present day situations of society.

Among the important contributors are the following: John Starie, who wrote a verse "Harvest," and an essay, "Candles to be Lit," concerning social changes in the younger generation; Roy Lovely, who submitted an essay, "A Pipe Named Galahad" and a story "Places Everybody," which is a lively sketch of an amateur minstrel show rehearsal.

Margaret Campbell's essay, "Farms," a commentary on American life in connection with interest in the Hauptmann case, was among those accepted. A poem, "Vision," revealing experiences similar to Francis Thompsons' "Hound of Heaven," was submitted by Edward Tuttle. Maurice Kidder writes frankly of the liberal mind in social and political life which, to use his title, is "Disposed to Suffer." Marie Young writes an amusing story of a sophomore who attempts "An Experiment in Romance." Alexander Karanikas' story, "He Wanted Cucumbers," was also accepted. "What—Back to the Small-town Library?," reveals among other things some interesting pieces of drama which occur in the small-town library, and was written by Dorothy

Point System is Passed to Limit Activity Lists

Complete Conformation to Rules Necessary by Fall Term

The point system as proposed by the committee delegated to study it was accepted by the student council Monday night. All extra-curricula activities which consume an appreciable amount of a student's time were considered by the committee composed of James Burch, Glen Stewart, and William Corcoran. As a result of this study the committee found it advisable to place a limit on the amount of activity which the individual student might carry.

The purpose of this proposal, as put forth by the members of the Council, was to eliminate two evils in our present activity system. The first was the overload carried by many students in this work to the detriment of their studies and the second the old evil of popularity contest elections for many of the campus offices.

The system proposed is in many ways similar to one which formerly existed at the University but which was allowed to lapse because of the 39 Schools Entered in Interscholastic Track Meet Sat.

Only Eleven High and Prep Schools are Entered from Instate

As guests of the University Athletic Department, thirty-nine high schools and preparatory schools will participate in the 23rd Annual Track and Field Meet on Memorial Field, Saturday.

Of the thirty-nine schools entered, only eleven are New Hampshire schools. The remaining twenty-eight are from four other states. In this group there are many fine track teams among which is Nott Terrace school of Schenectady, N. Y., which claims the national championship in the total number of track victories in the last ten years. They have defeated 3000 opponents and lost to only fifteen.

Heading the list of state high schools is Manchester Central which has won every meet since 1928. South Portland high school of Maine has won most of the meets in the out of state class, and Hebron Academy and Tilton school each have four wins in the preparatory class.

The list of schools participating tomorrow are as follows:

State high schools: Berlin, Nashua, Concord, Dover, Manchester West, Manchester Central, Pittsfield.

Out of state high schools: Boston College, Brattleboro, Brunswick, Conny, Fairhaven, Milton, Montpelier, Nott Terrace, Stevens, Bellows Falls, Deering, Gloucester, Haverhill, Lawrence, Portland, South Portland, Thornton, Raymond, Weymouth.

Preparatory schools: Bridgeton, New Hampton, Lincoln, Wassookeag, Austin Cate, Fryeburg, Governor Dummer, Huntington, St. Johns, Tilton.

Richardson. Other stories were also accepted and will be included in the 1935 issue.

WALKER PRESENTS COUNCIL NOMINEES

Fred Walker, President of Student Council, announced Monday night that the annual election to this body will be held next Monday, May 6. Since the Council has now completed all the projects for which the elections were postponed, President Walker presented the list of nominees chosen by the nominating committee and authorized Glen Stewart to prepare the ballots at once that the new members might be chosen Monday to take their seats immediately.

The election this year involves several departures from the procedure followed in the past and Walker recommended that all students read carefully the new rules published on this page of THE NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The senior candidates are Howard Ordway, William Knight, William Thompson, David Webster, Clint McLane, Austin McCaffery, William Weir, Paul Traver, Robert Goodman and David Yaloff. From these ten, five are to be elected.

Junior candidates are Kenneth Norris, Homer Verville, Richard Messer, Mathew Mattison, Otto Hemm, Edson Mattice, Lucien Dancause, and William Hurd. Of these eight, three are to be elected.

Sophomore candidates are Malcolm Russel, George Stenzel, Ralph Mitchell, William Hersey, Neil Richardson, and John Durie. Two are to be elected.

Arrangements for Prom are Complete

Tickets Go on Sale Today—Large Attendance Expected

Final arrangements for the Junior Prom to be held on May 10 have been completed, it was announced today.

All details from refreshments to orchestra have been effectually taken care of, it was revealed by Robertson Page, chairman of the Prom. At a recent meeting, the committee stated that summer formal, tuxedos, or coats and white flannels will be in order.

Tickets to the affair will be placed on sale today at the College Pharmacy and the Wildcat. Students have been urged to buy in advance because of the great number of requests from alumni to reserve tickets.

Fletcher Henderson is playing at the Tufts's Junior Prom tonight and will journey to Dartmouth tomorrow night when he will play in a battle of music with the Dorsey Brothers at the annual Green Key ball. This is the same ball which featured Glen Gray and the Casa Loma orchestra a year ago.

PSI LAMBDA TO HOLD INITIATION BANQUET

Psi Lambda, honorary home economics society, will hold its annual initiation banquet in the President's dining room in the Commons on Wednesday evening, May 8.

Upperclass members of Psi Lambda and honorary and faculty members will be present as well as the girls who will be initiated.

At a recent meeting of Pi Kappa Alpha the following officers were elected for the coming year. President, Ronald Pariseau; vice-president, Paul Caros; treasurer, Gilbert Crosby; house manager, Roger Seamans; and secretary, Charles I. Rowell.

Make Your Vote Count

During the past few years one of the strongest complaints made by the post-mortem boys on the campus has been to the effect that all student organizations have been under the direct control of the administration. The behind-the-lines theory makers have more than once insisted that this newspaper has been unwilling to push student opinion to the front.

This argument does not deserve a reply. Instead, it warrants a challenge. No longer will there be a student council controlled by organization heads. All members with a vote will, in the future, be elected by the student body. In this manner the council will be truly representative, and should be responsible for all matters concerning student affairs.

In other words, they are to be your representatives. If they submit without protest to questionable administrative regulations, or fail to challenge unworthy student proposals, then those of you who elected them are equally at fault.

Our present challenge is the ancient one of "put up or shut up." If a careful choice is made of council members, they should be the ones to force student opinion to the front. Think carefully of the qualifications, and vote accordingly next Monday. If the new council fails, the students of the University of New Hampshire will have failed.

Scabbard and Blade Will Initiate 19

Will be Conducted Along Plans Decided at Convention

Initiation of the nineteen junior pledges to Scabbard and Blade will probably take place within the next two weeks according to James Burch, president of that organization. A committee is now working on the arrangements.

The initiation this year will be conducted according to the new plans decided upon at the 19th convention of the society held at the University of Cincinnati last November, with Elton Glover, Henry Trow, and William Rugg, as representative delegates.

The junior initiates are: Thomas Burns, Jr., Forrest Bunford, Jere Chase, Chesley Durgin, Harold Haller, George Horton, Jr., Maurice Herlihy, Leslie Jones, Charles Joslin, William Kidder, Allan Low, Earle MacKay, Everett Munson, Samuel Page, Clyde Prince, Leon Ranchynoski, Edward Rogers, William Schipper and Paul Traver.

Howard W. Douglas, '31, track coach of Montpelier seminary, is bringing his team to the meet this week-end and will stay at the Tau Kappa Epsilon house along with his team.

Under New Rules All Members are Elected at Large

Old Activity Positions Abolished for More Popular Body

In an attempt to make the Student Council more truly representative of the student body, the present council voted Monday night to change from a membership of automatic memberships to a body elected entirely by the student body at the polls.

In the past the students have elected only five of the council members and the other eleven members assumed their seats automatically as heads of campus organizations. For some time it has been felt that this method of choosing a representative body was inherently bad and placed too much of a burden on men who already had sufficient work to do in their own organizations.

All active participation will, in the future, be denied those activities which formerly placed men on the council. Instead of this, ten men will be elected at large by the students and three other men will be invited to be present in an ex officio capacity to answer for their organizations, THE NEW HAMPSHIRE, Beckeratch Speaks in Murkland Wed.

“Entire Economic Order Shattered,” Says Professor

Dr. Herbert Von Beckeratch, professor of economics at the University of Bonn in Germany, spoke before a capacity audience Wednesday night in Murkland auditorium. His subject was Problems of International Trade and Exchange.

Stating that the whole economic system of international exchange has been shattered, Dr. Beckeratch pointed out that in order to restore the international order, two things are necessary: first, the field must be cleared of economic credit obstacles; and second, an international cooperation to set up a sound monetary policy. Further he showed that in order to restore the international economy to a firm basis, an international standard of competition must be effected.

Dr. Beckeratch is well known in the field of industrial organization and is one of the outstanding European economists.

Paul H. Blaisdell, New England Province Hegemon of Tau Kappa Epsilon, and newly appointed inspector of transportation for the N. H. Public Service Commission, paid an inspection visit to Alpha Nu chapter last week-end. Mr. Blaisdell was president of the class of 1930.

Semester Plan

No action has yet been taken by the administration on the brief presented by the Student Advisory Committee on the semester plan, and it seems as though this brief will meet the fate suffered by two others presented to the administration more than three years ago; namely, filed and forgotten.

When the mutual benefits of the plan to the students and faculty have been apparent for so long, it is inconceivable that the administration can be so lax as to let the matter rest as it is. The fact that twenty-one out of twenty-four colleges in New England are on the semester plan should in itself be sufficient reason for a change.

It is common knowledge that the change from the term plan to the semester plan will take a great deal of time in arranging courses and evaluating credits, and also that the expense of operating the College of Agriculture will be slightly higher than at present; but these difficulties are inconsequential when compared to the benefits of the semester plan.

The students and faculty of the University should unite in a concerted move to bring this matter before the board of trustees at an early date.

The Elaghin Affair: Ivan Bunin

From the winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1933 comes this collection of fifteen short stories. Starting from the first story and continuing through to the last, there is one motif, one theme: Death. Only in the story entitled Cicadas does Bunin tear himself away from this thought and contemplate life. And even here one feels that it is not a vital contemplation and understanding, but rather a deep brooding melancholic introspection in which the author becomes more muddled, more morbid than ever.

In comparing this last work with his others, especially The Well of Days, one is impressed particularly with the growing decay, the devastating decadency of his emotions. Primarily a poet, although he uses the prose form, Bunin's fanaticism

DURHAM'S MANIAC REPORTER GETS GORMAN'S GOAT

"Barbeque" Nelson, cooked his goose to a turn when he sullied the names of our local merchants, who had been a bit indiscreet with their gambling equipment. This morning's GLOBE disclosed to the public eye the fact that Gorman's ghetto had been sacked of its slot machine by "Clean-up" Bourgoon, Cowell's handy man. Some reporters live to a ripe old age, and then there are those—

That meshy representative of Chi O certainly got told when and where last Wednesday morning. Prancing into poetry class, she lifted a brown felt hat from the arm of a chair, dropped it disdainfully on the dusty floor, thus reminding its owner that it was an old hat. Said the owner, savagely, "Why, for the price of that hat, I could buy and sell you six times." Disinterested onlooker, "Say, are you still wearing $3 hats?" The gal flew in steadily diminishing circles, until she finally disappeared, thus leaving the class-room, the owner, and the disinterested onlooker in the dark.

Excerpt from a "History of Durham," as quoted by "Phil" Marston, "Durham is quite a resort for invalids and pleasure seekers." There is no idle words. The historian must have known "Tom Invalid" Burns, and "Milie Pleasure-Seeker" Shaw.

"Raggedy Ann" Gale, the smaller of Gale and Gale, still clings to her childish things. Every night when the shadows creep, and "Boogy" men abound, she creeps up the stairs of Alpha Chi, wide eyed, with her rag doll clutched tightly to her chubby bosom. (Sissy) in the past embraced something positive. In spite of its insistent secondary theme of brooding death, he had an intensity of religious fervor, a mystical adoration of Nature that bespoke of power, of life. But all this is gone, buried in the past, as Bunin's writing is buried in a dead Russia, a Russia that is no more. Now he appears in his true light, The Poet of Death, forever brooding, forever lost. All this one could forgive, but even his death has a quality of frustration. It is never strong, fearless, or silent. It is never the passionate, rich-blooded death that Hemingway sees. One looks in vain for the defiance of a Shelley, or the tear-wrenching poignancy of Keats' realization of his impending doom. Instead there is a cheapness and a shoddiness in Bunin's contemplation. It is a slow choking, the sensation of watching a drowning man who makes no attempt to fight the clutching current.

The book is the testament of a man who has lost all faith in life, whose very frustration has driven him to sing at the camp of death. Sing he does, sometimes catching for a moment the breathless adoration that was life for him in the past. But these songs are rare—like a momentary gleam of stars on a cloudy night that soon disappears into nothingness. Always they are lost beneath the brooding despair of his uncertainty, of his hopelessness over even Death.

RECENT EVENTS

Civil Liberties—

Fair-minded people everywhere should utter a hearty amen to the speech of Secretary Ickes this week in New York City. Said Mr. Ickes, "We have the paradoxical situation of self-proclaimed patriots demanding that constitutional rights be denied those very persons for whom those rights were written in the Constitution. We have leaders of public opinion urging on the mob to sadistic violence. We have public officials in violation of their oaths of office breaking up with tear-gas bombs such a meeting as that of Norman Thomas several months ago in a town in the state of Abraham Lincoln; and worst of all, we have a section of the press demanding that its freedom be not infringed upon in the slightest degree, while upholding the denial of the right of free speech and assembly to the minority groups.

Not only does this present a breaking down of our fundamental law; not only is it in contravention of the principles underlying our form of government; it would be, or at any rate so it seems to me, an unintelligent act even if the trampling of the Bill of Rights were not involved."

Illinois Relief Plight—

According to the "N. Y. Herald-Tribune," all relief stations in the state of Illinois have been closed, and 1,200,000 people face starvation, because of the withdrawal of Federal aid since the State Legislature has been unable to raise its allotted contribution. Appeals to President Roosevelt have been of no avail.

"Good Time Charley" Kidder attempted to give his blind date a super-extra good time at the Pan-Hell dance the other night. At nine-thirty he grasped her fair hand in his horny one, rushed her breathless to the station platform, all the while delivering a vivid description of our pride and joy, the new stream lined train. He went to great length in his dissertations, and told her to be prepared for the thrill of her life when that silver arrow of the machine age should roar its flashing challenge through the diminutive station of our quiet little hamlet. After about a half hour of expectant gazing, first up the track and then down, the girl turned to him, and whispered softly, "we might as well go back to the dance, dear, and don't think that I am too disappointed; because I rode down on the damn thing this morning."

Gallup "Red Hunt"—

A large protest demonstration against the eviction of an unemployed miner in Gallup, New Mexico recently, resulted in an exchange of gunfire with the "law." As a consequence a sheriff and a worker fell dead. Five others were wounded. New Mexico's statute books state that it is murder in the first degree to all persons present at the scene of a fatal affray. Because of the size of the crowd no one could say who and who was not present. Expeditionary Legionnaires knew the solution. Sworn in as special officers, they searched the houses of several hundred Gallup miners. Forty-eight men and women were arrested on the charge of murder because radical literature was found in their homes. Says the New Republic, "The forty-eight persons on trial for murder are really being tried for radicalism."

World Nationalism—

Charles F. Speare, Financial Writer, writing for the Globe sees the impossibility of re-employment if world commerce is not restored. Both are being diminished due to world nationalism. All nations are striving for economic self-sufficiency and are throwing up high tariff walls against imports. Germany and Italy are the most outstanding examples. Of Italy he says, "The obvious purpose of the campaign in Abyssinia is to gain control of oil, minerals, and other commodities necessary to Italian economy. It is a perfectly frank expedition of conquest for which preparations have been going on for months."

Northeastern Team Meets Varsity Sat.

Trackmen to Face Invaders After Interscholastic Track Meet

Shortly after the Interscholastic Track meet draws to a close this Saturday afternoon, the New Hampshire Varsity Track team will make its first home appearance against Northeastern University.

Inspired by their victory at Brown last week, the team should make a good showing. But Northeastern, as they showed last Saturday by taking third place in the greater Boston Intercollegiates, will be no push over. Curt Funston, acting captain against Brown, will be hard pressed in his specialties by Ray Henderson who took second place in the 200 meter low hurdles and Allan Hakanson who took third place in the high hurdles. Northeastern also has two crack quarter milers in Ernest Eldredge and Richard Ellis who easily outdistanced the rest of the field at Harvard last week; a high jumper, Albert Komich, capable of jumping six feet or better; and a discus thrower who has done over 145 feet.

New Hampshire will be handicapped by the absence of Pete Ktistes and Mattie Wiitala, both place winners at Brown in the hammer throw and pole vault, respectively. However, if Funston, Chertok, Wilson, Johnson, and several others are at their best, the meet will be exciting and closely contested.

The Northeastern entries:

100-yard Dash—E. Eldredge, F. Tuscher, A. Hakanson, R. Henderson.
220-yard Dash—Same as 100.
440-yard Dash—R. Ellis, E. Eldredge, F. Tuscher, A. Cicchetti, A. Saleka.
880-yard Run—C. Garland, L. Sudralim, R. Ellis, A. Cicchetti, A. Saleka.
1 Mile Run—W. Robak, L. Sudralim, A. Lingle, C. Robak.
120 High Hurdles—A. Hakanson, R. Henderson.
220 Low Hurdles—A. Hakanson, R. Henderson.
High Jump—A. Komich, H. Pray, J. Sandler.
Pole Vault—P. Waltoneu, R. Betis, R. Whittier.
Javelin Throw—Yesetsena, G. Tilden, R. Hadley, I. Easton.
Discus—Tilden, Hadley, Bergamini.
Hammer Throw—C. Wolowiz, Hadley, Mahaffey.
Shot Put—Hadley, H. Beckerman, C. Canney.

Wildcats to Meet Strong Brown Nine

Veteran Brown Team is in Mid-Season Form

Tomorrow the "Wildcats" meet the Brown University nine which is probably the strongest club that New Hampshire will face this year.

To date Brown has had a very successful season, having taken Northeastern and Dartmouth into camp, and losing to Holy Cross by a very small margin. This club is made up largely of veterans who have been playing "heads-up" baseball all season. Murray pitched a faultless game in shutting out Dartmouth, and Butler, Brown's 6-ft. 6-in. first sacker, has been hitting continuously throughout the past three seasons. They have reached their mid-season stride mainly as a result of an early schedule and exceptionally fine weather.

The battery for Brown will be Dye on the mound and Hart behind the plate. Although this is Dye's first year on the varsity, he pitched a no-hit, no-run game against Bradford Durfee for the freshmen last year. Frank Brown, last year's outstanding infielder, will start the game at second. Hart is one of Brown's outstanding athletes having earned three varsity letters in his sophomore year.

Gene Churchill will be the starting pitcher, while Bus Grocott, who has been ill with the measles, may get in at third. Fred Moody, New Hampshire's all-round athlete, will undoubtedly be shifted to the outfield so that Nick Issak, a junior, may gain experience for the 1936 season.

The probable line up for New Hampshire will be: Churchill, p.; Issak, c.; Roegan, 1st; Chase, 2nd; Walker, s.s.; Joslin, 3rd; Moody, l.f.; Abbott, c.f.; Toll, r.f. For Brown: O'Reilly, r.f.; Appleyard, 3rd; Elrod, c.f.; Butler, 1st; Murray, l.f.; Brown, 2nd; Levensen, s.s.; Hart, c.; Dye, p.

Tomorrow morning over 750 coaches, competitors, and officials will gather at Memorial Field for the 23rd annual interscholastic track meet.

Each year the competition has become much keener, and throughout the twenty-two years that the meet has been held, the watchword and keynote has been good sportsmanship and fair play.

Trackmen representing thirty-eight different secondary schools from five different states will be running grueling races, jumping, throwing the weights, the javelin, and the discus, in order to bring fame and glory to their respective schools. Each and every competitor will have the same goal in mind, yet only three teams will leave Durham with first place honors.

Each track meet has its outstanding men whose names are seen in headlines of the morning papers, yet their glory is only temporary, for within a week their names have long been forgotten. If a man has to win by foul play, then let him lose the event, for it will save his own reputation as a sportsman and his school will be prouder of him.

Back in 1929 a dark horse entered the interscholastics from Schenectady, N. Y. The team won the out of state class competition by a 12½ point margin. On that team was a tall, lanky youth of 18 who ran the high and low hurdles and easily took two first places. This same fellow ran two years later for Clark school and set a new interscholastic record for the 220 yard low hurdles of 24.6 seconds. Tomorrow you will see him, now a senior at the university, run both the hurdle events, the 100 and the 220 yard dashes, in the personage of Curt Funston, captain of the 1934 team and mainstay of this year's New Hampshire squad.

The preparatory schools will be much more interesting to watch this year than last, for Tilton school is coming to Durham with revenge in its eyes in order to bring the preparatory title back to the Granite State. The team opened up in a triangular meet recently and took a first by a large margin. St. John's Prep of Danvers, Mass., however, is the class favorite. On this year's Tilton team are many new men who are making their track debut in the interscholastics. Among these is the "kid brother" of yours truly.

Within another twenty-four hours the 23rd interscholastic track meet will be a thing of the past and plans will begin for the 1936 meet which will be even greater than this year's, for the director of the meet, Coach Paul Sweet, has always kept things with which he is connected moving forward. Within eleven years of Coach Sweet's directorship, this meet has become second only to the Harvard Interscholastics and has grown from 250 competitors to 650 while the schools which have entered have increased from twenty to thirty-eight. Congratulations, Paul!

University at large by the preferential voting system now in effect. That is any man regardless of his class may vote for all the members to council. The senior member receiving the highest number of votes will be president of the council, and the next highest member of this class, vice-president. The secretary and treasurer will be elected by the members of the council from the three junior members.

Dr. A. M. Stowe of the Department of Education addressed the Rotary Club of Amesbury, Mass., May 2. His topic was "Meeting the Educational Needs of our Youth."

Frosh Track Team Opens With Exeter

Squad Leaves Tomorrow for First Meet of This Season

The freshman track team will embark for Exeter tomorrow to open the season against the strong Exeter track team, in an attempt to break the jinx that has always been present in past years; for the New Hampshire team has never beaten Exeter.

This year's squad, made up of about the same men as composed the cross-country and winter track team, will apparently be no exception. Although Paul Sweet predicts a clean sweep of several of the running events, the loss of points in the field events will more than compensate for these victories.

Paul Sweet announces the freshman entries as follows:

It's an ultra-short wave radio telephone antenna—before being raised above the dunes of Cape Cod.

For some years, Bell System engineers have been studying ultra-short waves. They have developed automatic transmitters and receivers which may be connected with regular telephone lines at points far from central offices. They hope such radio links will be useful in giving telephone service to points difficult to reach by usual methods.

The installation on Cape Cod—which is now undergoing service tests—is just one more example of Bell System pioneering in the public interest.

Sixty sophomores from the Coast Artillery and seventy from the Infantry applied for the advanced course in Military Science, it was announced last Wednesday by Major Donovan Swanton.
